SWINE FLU UPDATE: Governor Rell Reports 2 Possible CT Cases, 1 In Southbury, 1 In Stafford

Connecticut public schools, all Over 150 people have died in 1,100 of them along with an uncertain number of private secondary education schools, have received swine flu preparedness warnings from the state health department.

Wethersfield is preparing to close a school or more due to reports of a possible contagion from students recently returned from a Mexican vacation

New York state reported an outbreak of 42 cases in a New York city private parochial school.

Cases have been reported in California, Texas, Indiana and Kentucky.

Hospitals have contingency plans.
